

Here at Sportsman Cap & Bag, we want to make sure you know all of our distributor partners. We'd like to introduce you to Mission Imprintables—a distributor of imprintable headwear, apparel and accessories.

While they supply all kinds of imprintable goods, the relationship with Sportsman Cap & Bag has made them a player in the cap and bag industry.

Located in San Diego, California, Mission Imprintables offers outstanding inventory and excellent customer service. For more than 20 years, the family-owned business has worked to deliver the best wearables in the market, and has earned a reputation for being trustworthy, timely, and accurate with their orders.

They're well-known in the industry for training and keeping the best customer service reps, warehouse staff and accounting personnel. Everyone is dedicated, professional and focused on customer relationships.

Mission Imprintables is currently owned and operated by its president, Lisa Coy. The company has roots in Coy's grandfather's wholesale western wear business, providing vendor relationships that have stemmed as far back as 75 years.

Remember, starting January 2018, all Sportsman Cap & Bag orders will be fulfilled through one of our 16 distributor locations—Mission Imprintables being one of them. You'll still get the best prices, and you may even gain faster delivery times, depending on the location you choose.
